

Defeating the Diaprax Seminar

WITH DEAN GOTCHER

There is a major move to change the way Americans think. Some call it "the reculturing of America," others call it "reinventing government." This scheme has been designed by socio-psychologists for American education, business, and politics. The reason behind the quest of these socio-psychologists is simply the resentment of authority. It is rebellion against God. This attitude goes back beyond the garden experience of Adam and Eve and, as you will see, "justifies" itself according to a particular "scientific" way of thinking—the dialectic and its environment of deceit and manipulation, called praxis. This "new" way of thinking is taking control of America, as well as the rest of the world, through its use in education, business, politics, and religion. This process is having a direct effect upon all our lives. According to Karl Marx, "The process is not successful until no one can escape."

In the land of Diaprax there can be no patriarchal family in the community. In essence the father figure must become "negated" in the mind of the individuals in the family. The father figure must also be "negated" in the activities and thus the perception of the community. Now it is the home-school movement (with its emphasis upon the patriarchal paradigm i.e. use of chastening-spanking) facing the spirit of "educated-enlightened" children (young and old) who hold chastening in contempt. Many of its "leaders" (trained in psychology and the artcraft of socialization) have surrendered to the diaprax standard, and are bringing the home school movement into the fold of those in the land of Diaprax. "We will leave no child behind." "All children are at risk." It is just a matter of time before those who home school will be divided amongst themselves on how to raise children (To chasten or not to chasten? That is the question.) An attack is now being made upon those who home school, upon those families who praxis the patriarchal paradigm of chastening, parents who are standard bearers for the next generation, training them up, teaching (didacto) them the difference between right and wrong. After all, Marx said the "traditional family" must be "annihilated," both in theory and in practice.

Come and don't miss this essential information for all Christians to hear, get equipped and be ready to stand against the evil schemes of this world.
